"The Gold Ore at the left signifies that this man, while no doubt having some good qualities, will be a very hard man to have a relationship with. Extra work, less fulfillment, more frustration and more disappointments are what a relationship with this one will lead to."

"Before Compatibility there is Capacity..."

Everyone who follows astrology knows that there is such a magnificent thing as Astrological Relationship Compatibility - the ability to see from the chart if a person is "The One," if they will fit you perfectly. Compatibility is, however, the second step in using astrology to find the ideal mate. The first step is determining the Capacity of both people to have a healthy relationship. Capacity is the degree to which a person can participate in a relationship so that that relationship can be fulfilling. It reflects the degree to which we are emotionally and behaviorally suited to be a romantic partner for someone. Simply speaking, Compatibility is the degree to which we can take advantage of our Capacity. A person with a great Capacity for relationship can have a pretty darn good relationship even with a somewhat incompatible partner, while a person with an impossibly low Capacity for relationship will usually have an awful relationship even with a very compatible partner - at least until they improve their Capacity through self-development, Bach Flower Remedies, spiritual practices, therapy, conscious living, etc. When it comes down to it, it is Capacity that is most important for a fulfilling relationship - when two capable people come together most of the work is already done. Understanding our Capacity is also the first step in learning to become more capable in a relationship. Capacity is not a limiting factor; it is the beginning of understanding ourselves so that we can make the progress we need in order to have a wonderful and fulfilling relationship.

The ancient astrological texts deal very extensively with determining the Capacity of a woman to have a good relationship and the ability of a man to be "worth his salt" - without which he can never be a good partner or husband. The following report is based on these ancient principles which are timeless and so perfect for every age, but most needed at a time such as now when the divorce rate is high, loneliness is rampant and failing family structures are putting pressures on children they should never have to endure.

Please note that this report is gender dependent and so make sure that you order the male report for a male and a female report for a female.

Poets since the dawn of time have described just how difficult it is to please a woman's heart - but we know all these things are the tears of failed lovers and that really a woman's heart does not ask for much. All she asks for is a man that she can love and a man who does the right thing at the right time in such a way that she feels loved in return - it is that simple. These days, however, there seems to be a shortage of such men! Why is that? Is it because the astrological factors are worse now for some reason? No, it is because modern culture makes it easy for a man to follow his worst planetary inclinations and so a man will often do that instead of following his better planetary inclinations. Because of this, it is very important that you find a man whose planetary inclinations for being a real man are much stronger than are his "playboy" and low self-esteem inclinations. You need a man whose astrological influences cause him to follow his confident, mature and productive side and one who is, at the same time, a loveable person. In this report we will examine this man's horoscope to examine these two things.

"What is making this man loveable..."

Certain planets will make a man loveable - a man who can easily share affection, humor, companionship and love. Other planets will make him hard, stoic, impassive, cold, closed off, stubborn, reckless, etc. - making it hard for your heart to reach out to him and love him, and feel loved by him. By looking at these things we can see just how enjoyable of a day-to-day companion this man can be and how well he can get along with another person, including his woman. Here are the planets that are helping this man be loveable:

 Jupiter, the planet of happiness, creativity, virtue and wisdom is influencing this man's personality to a healthy degree. This is a great position for Jupiter to be in his chart. His optimistic, creative and insightful nature will make him a valuable treasure in your life. These things help this man have a better life, while also helping you find greater happiness in your relationship together.

 Mercury, the planet of friendship and communication is influencing this man's personality to only a small degree, so while he does have some Mercury influence, it can easily be drowned out by other planets, especially during those more difficult times in a relationship. If he sometimes seems to be lacking in humor or communication, that does not necessarily mean that he does not love you, he may just have a hard time expressing his ideas.

 Venus, the planet of peace and diplomacy, love, affection and charm is influencing this man's personality to only a small degree, so while he has a bit of Venus to make him graceful, charming, affectionate and polite, it will usually be drowned out by other, stronger planets, especially during those more difficult times in your relationship. If he is not as charming, polite, affectionate, fun, etc. as you would like, keep in mind that it doesn't necessarily mean he doesn't love you, just that it's not in his nature to behave that way much.

 The Moon, the planet of adaptability and receptivity, is influencing this man's personality to only a small degree. This makes him less adaptable and receptive to being loved and adored than average, but doesn't prevent him from loving you. He just won't be the most adorable cuddle bunny, but if the rest of his report reads well, he'll be a great man to have by your side.

"What is making this man do the Right Thing..."

Certain planets will help a man follow through on promises, handle what life throws at him, be responsible and do all that a man needs to do in order to earn and keep your respect. Without respect, love deteriorates. So you need a man worthy of respect - respect based on his ability to manage his world, including, most importantly, his relationship with you. Here are the strong planets helping this man be capable of doing the right thing, the emphasis being on the word "strong." There are other planets influencing his ability to do the right thing, but what matters is the really strong and thus effective planets, the ones that endow him with the qualities you can count on in him.

There are no extremely strong planets situated in such a way as to help this man do the right thing. This makes him average in this regard. Average is not bad, it's good enough to get the job done, as long as there's nothing making it particularly hard for him to do the right thing. We'll look at those hard things later in this report.

"What is making it hard to love this man..."

Some planets can make it harder for your man to be available for your love and to loving you in return. These planets can make him withdrawn, critical, frustrated, detached, aloof, tedious, etc. - basically, some planets can make him difficult to be around. If he has any of these, he may still have plenty of good qualities to make it worth having him in your life, but sometimes he'll need more space than you feel comfortable giving.

 The solid and stable Sun is sitting right next to this man's ascendant and this is giving him many solar qualities, such as leadership, magnetism, steadfastness and professionalism. While all of this sounds great, the one problem is that the Sun is more suited for impersonal relationships, such as the relationship formed through one's work, than it is for personal relationships such as love and marriage. With this Sun position a man will be more inclined to sacrifice his relationship time for the time he needs to fulfill his ambitions and so the relationship will have to work on his schedule more than on yours or the relationship's. If that works for you, know that when he is with you can be sure he is really be available, but if he has to choose between love and what he needs to do in the world, he'll likely choose the latter. The good news is that the steadfast Sun will make him a more committed person in general, so if he does commit to you, you'll have a lot of security in the relationship.

"What is making it hard for this man to do the Right Things..."

When it comes right down to it, the most important thing that a man needs to do to have a good relationship is to be responsible, confident in his actions, steadfast, honest, diligent and committed with those things that he decides are important in his life so that when he decides that he wants to have a relationship with you, he will have a real relationship with you, one that you can count on. Certain planets placed in the wrong places will make it very difficult for a man to act in the ways that make a relationship work. This is really important because when it comes right down to it, a relationship fails or succeeds depending on what the man does or does not do.

"Is this man capable of doing the right thing more often than not?"

After considering the strongest planetary influences in this man's horoscope, he appears to be quite average with doing the right thing. Average will work as long as you are compatible with one another and as long as your heart is truly open. But if your heart is not fully open to love, then he will not be able to manage any negative attitudes coming from you without getting strained and depressed himself.

"Is this man easy or difficult to love?"

This man appears to be a difficult personality. He will probably tend to do things the hard way and be better at doing hard things than the fun and enjoyable things in life. In general, he'll probably find relationships difficult for him to get just right, while he will have an easier time when working in isolation, so he will have to make more of a stretch to be relationship material. If you give him the chance and are patient enough to learn to understand the difficult parts of him, things could work. As long as he does the right thing, a difficult personality can be bearable.

"In Conclusion: This man is hard to love and average in doing the right thing."

This man has a difficult personality, so he'll be hard to love. He does, however, have some possibilities for doing the right thing so if you have many common goals you may be able to support each other. But if you don't have a lot of common goals, your different desires will bring out his worst and you would be better off without him.

"Next Step, Compatibility"

After Capacity, Compatibility becomes important. Whether a person has a high or low Capacity for relationship, it is best for you to have good Compatibility with them as well. For the person with high Capacity, a partner with whom they share good Compatibility makes the relationship effortless and allows for a deeper degree of sharing and greater productivity. For the person with low Capacity, a relationship blessed with good Compatibility creates an environment where they can effectively learn to relate in a more capable manner and bring out their best possible behavior - the going will still be tough, but they'll improve and eventually they can have a good relationship with that compatible person if they hang in there.

On the other hand, venturing into a relationship with poor Compatibility is bound to be unrewarding and frustrating. For the person with high Capacity, a relationship with poor Compatibility will do its best to frustrate his or her talents, reduce their potential productivity as a partner and bring out the worst possible behavior in that person. In the end they're likely to decide that the relationship is just not worth the effort. For the person with low Capacity, a relationship with poor Compatibility will make life impossible and be so dramatic as to cause everything in the lives of both people to suffer. So after understanding and working with your Capacity, find a relationship with acceptable - doesn't have to be perfect, but at least acceptable - Compatibility, and you will have a great relationship.
